

CREATIVE WRITING INTERMEDIATE COURSE

A six week course for writers looking to develop skills in prose or scriptwriting, starting 22nd September at Kingston Arts.

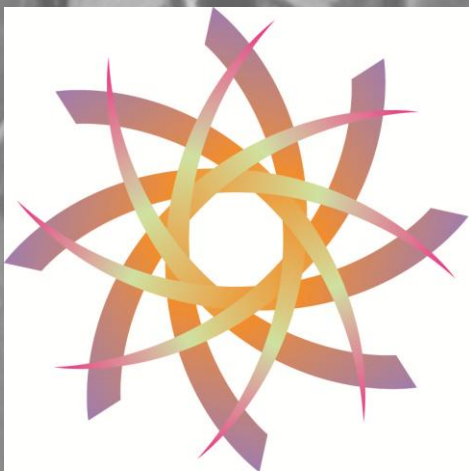

Run by Andy Moseley, playwright, author and graduate of the University of East Anglia's School of Creative Writing, the course provides opportunities to share your work and receive feedback and health checks on your story ideas and the extent to which your plot, characters and writing bring them to life.

Detailed feedback will be provided on individual chapters or scenes, and there will be tailored exercises covering common problems writers face and specific difficulties participants may be having.

There will also be collaborative creating writing exercises to help you explore different approaches to writing and how to run with ideas and turn them into something new.

The course costs £60, or £54 for Kingston Arts Members. Course dates are Tuesdays from 22nd September to 3rd November (excluding 13 October) from 7.30pm to 9.30pm.

For further details or to join the course, e-mail Andy Moseley at andy.moseley@virgin.net

KINGSTON ARTS delivering excellence

www.andymoseley.com